We work with all types of product, new and used, under $4,000.00 and up. If it's new and used, we've probably got it, and if we don't, we can probably find it for you!-preserving rearrangement. In particular, the system of [@BenVir; @RichVir] is described by a nonlinear system of differential equations with locally Lipschitz right-hand side. This system can be easily quantized with the invariance structure of Theorem \[thm:qint\]. However, the approach we have just sketched provides an alternative to the interpretation via a nonlinear system of differential equations, and this alternative to quantization seems interesting in its own right.
