Coated articles are known in the art for use in window applications such as insulating glass (IG) window units, vehicle windows, and/or the like. It is known that when vehicle windows are in their open position, especially in hot environments, such as when the vehicle is traveling on a hot day, the vehicle occupants and items inside the vehicle may feel the temperature of the vehicle through the vehicle windows. By coating a low-emissivity (low-E) coating on the interior side of the vehicle windows, more of the interior vehicle lighting is transmitted through the window, thereby reducing the instances in which the vehicle occupants and items inside the vehicle feel the temperature of the vehicle through the window. In certain example embodiments of this invention, IG window units (or vehicle windows) for commercial vehicles such as school buses are coated so as to reduce energy losses. In other example embodiments of this invention, IG window units for commercial vehicles such as school buses are coated for other reasons. In certain example embodiments of this invention, there is provided a coated article comprising: a coating supported by a substrate, the coating comprising: a low-emissivity layer comprising silver and a first multilayer dielectric film layer comprising a silver-based metallic material; wherein the low-emissivity layer and the first multilayer dielectric film layer are abraded. In certain example embodiments of this invention, there is provided a coated article comprising: a coating supported by a substrate, the coating comprising: a low-emissivity layer comprising silver and a first multilayer dielectric film layer comprising a silver-based metallic material; wherein the first multilayer dielectric film layer is abraded away from the low-emissivity layer such that the effective low-emissivity layer thickness is less than a pre-abraded low-emissivity layer effective thickness. In certain example embodiments of this invention, there is provided a coated article comprising: a coating supported by a substrate, the coating comprising: a low-emissivity layer comprising silver and a first multilayer dielectric film layer comprising a silver-based metallic material; wherein the low-emissivity layer is abraded. In certain example embodiments of this invention, there is provided a method of making a coated article comprising: abrading a low-emissivity layer comprising silver and a first multilayer dielectric film layer comprising a silver-based metallic material, such that
