A semiconductor laser device is a solid state device, can achieve a high light-emitting efficiency and has a long service life. The semiconductor laser device is therefore excellent in reliability, which is suitable for high-speed and high-output operation in use. In the case where a semiconductor laser device is utilized in an optical disk drive apparatus, for example, the semiconductor laser device is utilized in an optical pickup apparatus, in order to meet higher recording density and larger storage capacity of an optical disk. FIG. 7 is a diagram showing a conventional semiconductor laser device. The semiconductor laser device comprises a submount 10, a semiconductor laser chip 11 fixed to the submount 10 via a bonding material 12 and a lens 14 being supported on the semiconductor laser chip 11. The lens 14 is pressed against a concave portion of the submount 10 by spring force of an elastic material or by a spring 17. In the semiconductor laser device shown in FIG. 7, the stress generated in the lens 14 by the spring 17 is applied in the direction to shift the position of a center of a light-emitting surface of the lens 14 to the submount 10 (direction to the left in FIG. 7), and the stress caused by the stress applied to the lens 14 is

mut vlists: BTreeMap = BTreeMap::new(); vlists.insert("literal".to_string(), BTreeSet::new()); fn main() { let s: &str = "literalapi"; match vlists.get(&s) { Some((name: &str, sign: &BTreeSet)) => { println!("Name : {}", name); println!("Strings in {} : {}", sign, sign.len()); } None => println!("String {} not found", s), } }

However, it always returns None, even if the whole name literalapi, not literal is in vlists. Am I doing this the right way, or is there a better way in Rust to do this? Also

1. An Anticipation-Driven Game The action is initiated not only when you press the button but also as you wait for the button press. This is a rhythm game where waiting and pressing repeat at a steady pace. The button press timing and location may change according to the timing and location of the enemy. In this way, the player's game strategy will change depending on the situation. 2. The New Style Action Battle System In classic turn-based RPGs, character actions, level-up actions, special attacks, and special items that can be used when enemies are encountered are executed during battle. On the other hand, turn-based action games focus on immediate character actions during battle. The action battle system of our game is intended to fill the gap between the two. In the battle system, only a continuous chain of responses from each character to the enemy that is formed during waiting for an enemy and continuously made during battle can be done. While making a continuous chain of responses, you can chain special attacks, special items, and normal attacks. 3. Customizable Controls and System With the ability to freely customize the controls, the game plays smoothly. 4. Fast-Focusing System and Single-Target Attacks The game has a fast-focusing system where the camera automatically follows you as you play, and a single-target attack system, where enemy characters are attacked in front of their back row. 5. Exploration and Boss Monsters Exploration is a new feature of the game. When you explore a place, you can find small monsters or prepare to deal with large enemies. 6. A Community-Driven Game Our game is a community-driven game that has been launched on the web. In addition, we have also provided a special area in the game called the "Pioneer Camp" for players to explore, trade, and learn from each other. By combining such an epic fantasy world and storyline, this game is born out of nostalgia and born out of imagination. Please enjoy the uniqueness of this game. ■ Contents ■ *The Elder Scrolls Online on PlayStation®4 ■ Installation In the game installation folder, select "ESO.eso" to start ESO, then start the game by selecting the "Play" icon. ■ General System (General introduction) * In this gameplay, one character is designated as the "Player" (PC player), while the rest are "Enemy

Updated: Mar 02, 2018 20:39 IST If the Maha Kumbh Mela draws big crowds, it has much less to do with the practice of belief than about the sheer fascination of human crowds. While hundreds of millions of human beings visit annually, take photos, give prayers, and mingle with ancient rituals, there are many in this year's Kumbh Mela in Allahabad that have travelled for great distances just to experience it. Some 15,000 people stood in a queue for 24 hours. One of the reasons cited by these participants, most of whom were from Maharashtra, was to see the Kumbh Mela and now look at them, they cannot go back home. "We didn't even know this could be such a big thing," said Meghna Desai, 21, an art student. For, while Kumbh Melas in Allahabad, Prayagraj, Nashik, Devghari, Haridwar, Yamunotri, Gangotri, Merghikatti, Badrinath, Hardwar, Gangotri again, Hampi, Devasthali, Siddarghat, Bhimashankar, Jameeluna and Dahod, have their own attractions, it is the sheer presence of the Mela that draws devotees. Last year, more than 3,500 foreigners had registered to attend the Kumbh Mela, rising
